

Welcome to your Carvis Report!

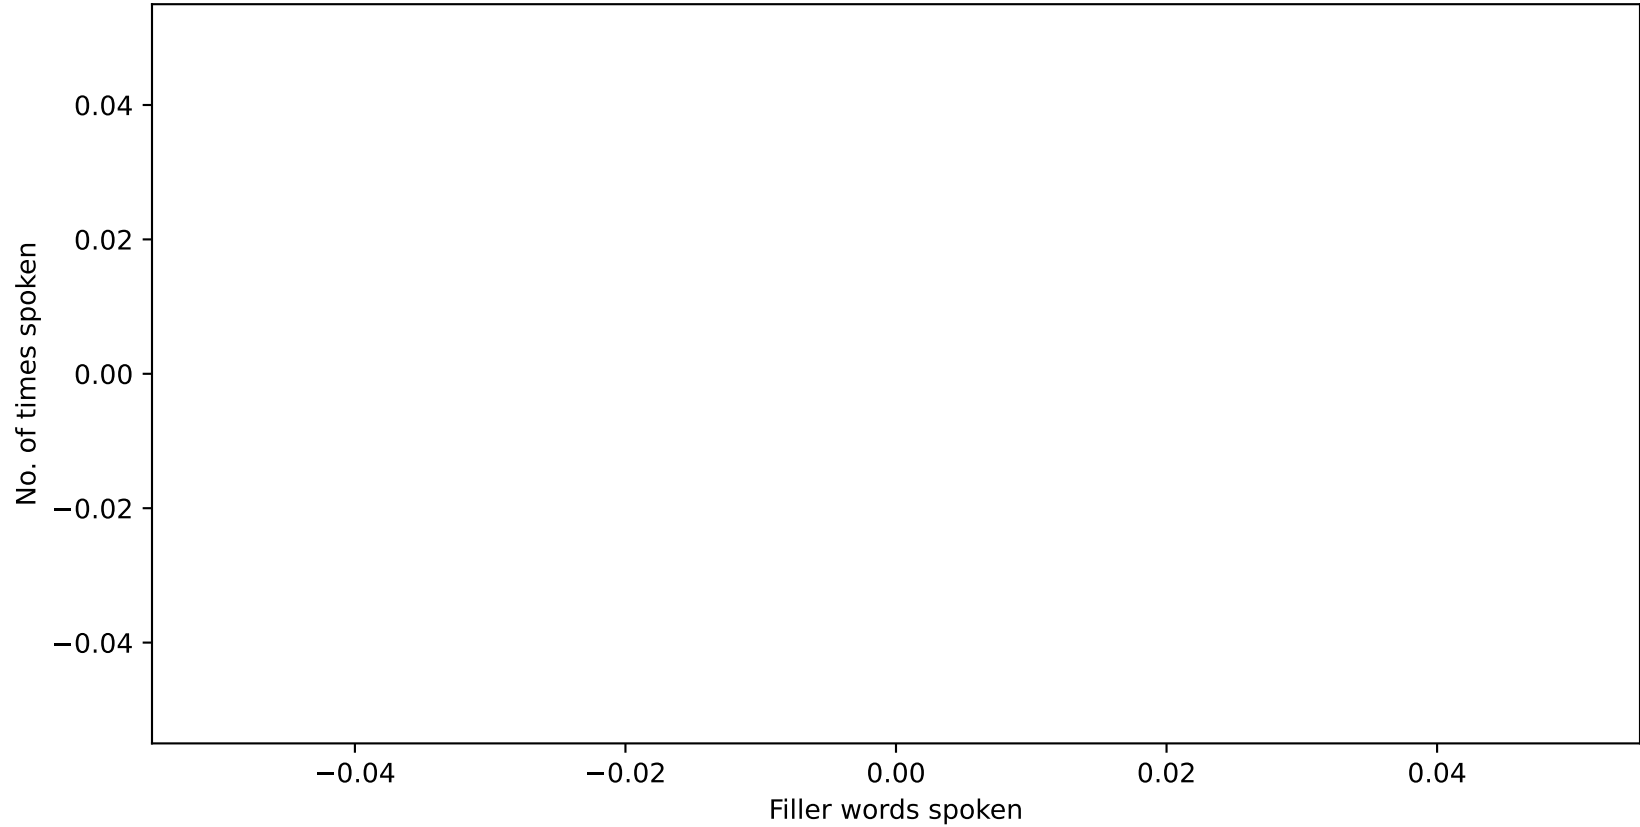

Here are the insights from the audio you recorded or the recording you specified. We hope you find them helpful: feel free to take notes to help you improve! First, let us look at your commonly-used filler words and where they appear in the transcript of your speech.

Hint: Best to use as few filler words as possible

Great speaker uses only 1 filler word per minute while an average speaker uses 5 filler word per minute.

You spoke about 0.0 filler words per minute

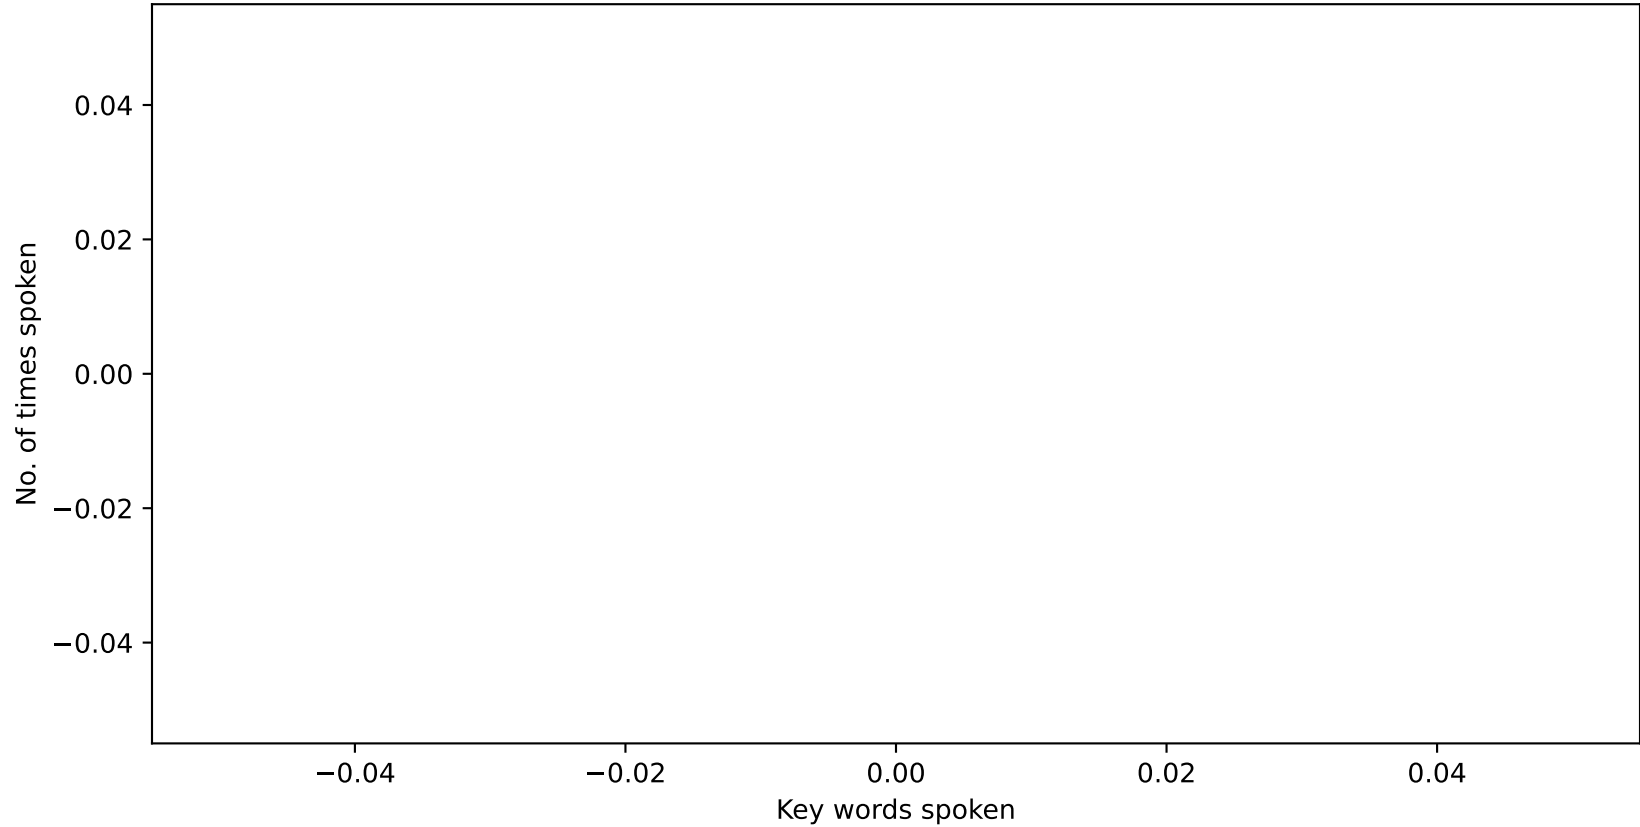

Filler words used in Speech:

ABCD EFG hijk elemeno P elemeno P QRS TUV wxy said

Next, let us look at some of the frequently-occurring keywords in your speech and where they appear in the transcript of your speech. As you look at the graph of keywords, think about what each keyword represents. Is it a word that is essential to conveying the meaning of your speech? If so, it might be alright for the keyword to be repeated many times. If you wish to reduce repetition for some of the keywords, we have listed some synonyms for the commonly-used keywords.

Key words used in Speech:

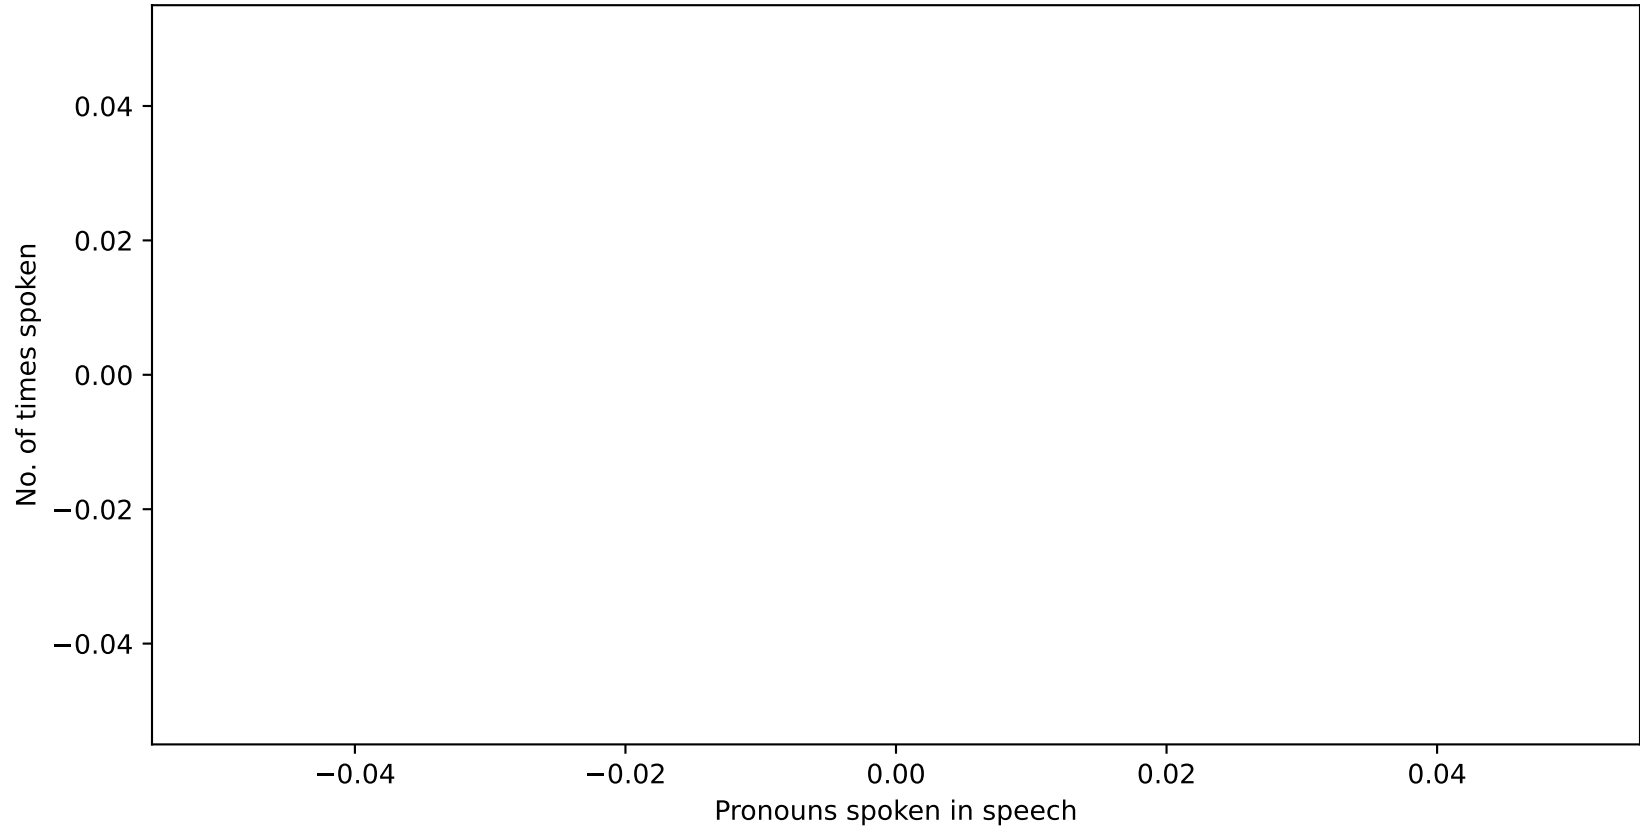

ABCD EFG hijk elemeno P elemeno P QRS TUV wxy said

Synonyms to the frequently used keywords

Next, let us take a look at your frequency of using different pronouns and where they appear in the transcript of your speech. Look at the differences between the frequency of I or you and the frequency of we. If you are talking about a group effort and tend to say I or you more than you say we, consider using we more to create a more collaborative atmosphere. Now, here is your challenge: which insights can you glean from looking at your pronoun distribution below?

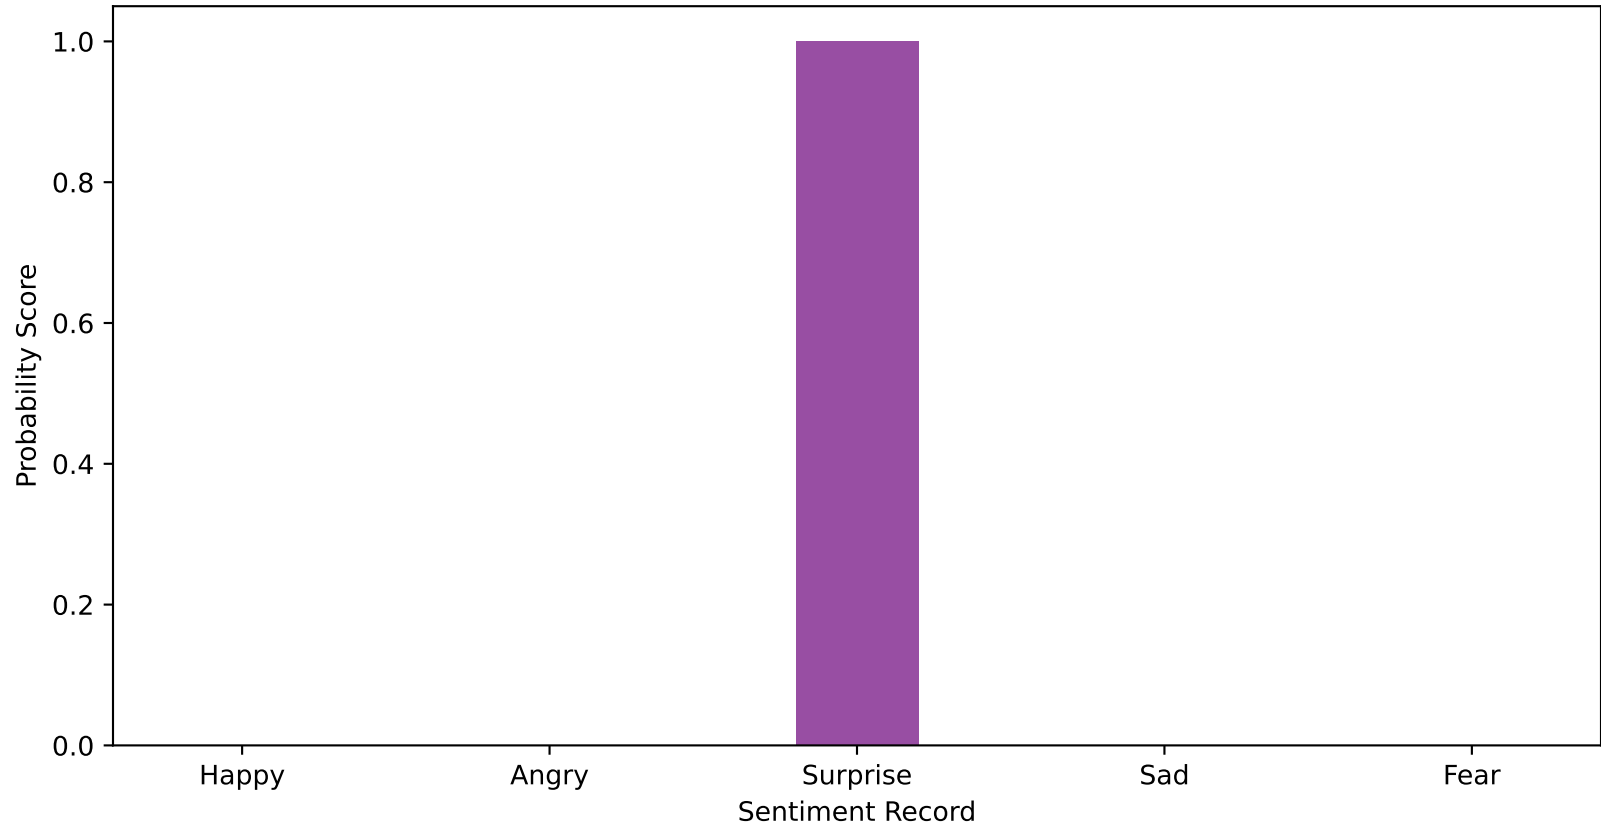

Pronouns frequently used in Speech:

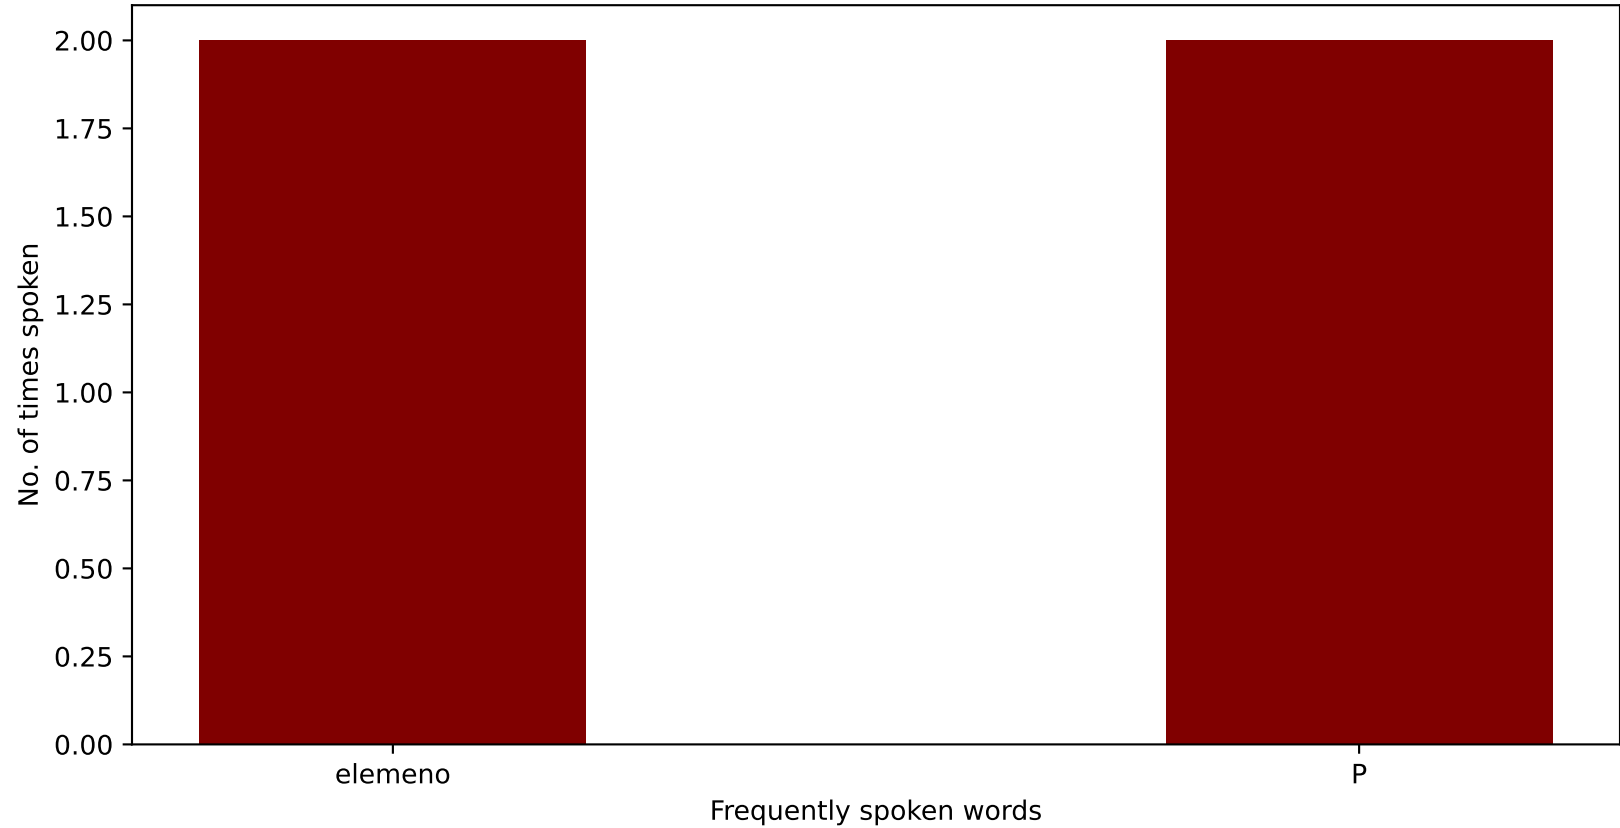

ABCD EFG hijk elemeno P elemeno P QRS TUV wxy said

Finally, we can explore what our system thinks your sentiment is based on the text of your speech. What do you infer from the plot below?

Sentiment plot of your Presentation

Words Frequently used in Speech:

ABCD EFG hijk elemeno P elemeno P QRS TUV wxy said

That is it for now! Please come back soon to explore insights from more of your recordings or from any Internet video recordings! Happy practicing!